

Android/iOS Mobile Application Developer

The Company

IntelliFarms believes that farmers deserve a high tech supplier they can trust. The products and services they purchase from IntelliFarms are backed by our experience, our actions, and our commitment.

IntelliFarms believes that its employees deserve a company they can believe in. We offer every employee an environment of trust, of great challenge, and an opportunity to advance their careers.

IntelliFarms expects its employees to set and meet challenges, to constantly improve performance, to innovate, to never stop learning, and to work for everyone around them, including our customers.

Our Need

Our Engineering team is looking for individuals who exemplify the traits just described. In particular, we are looking for a Mobile Application Developer to enhance our team.

Our ideal candidate will be especially innovative and extremely proficient developing mobile applications for both iOS and Android. Some apps create a user interface for our products via a BTLE connection.

This is not an entry-level job. You must have enough experience to demonstrate your mastery of the technology, of algorithmic design and of critical thinking. These skills should be reflected in your resume and will be tested in an interview.

A degree or advanced degree in computer science or engineering will have helped enhance your skills and abilities. For that reason it is a desirable, but not an essential requirement for this position.

Possible Downside

We are located in Archie, MO—about 15 minutes south of Harrisonville, MO and 45 minutes from Overland Park, Waldo, and Lee's Summit. The distance is a negative for some, but many of our employees live in those areas and many enjoy the commute opposite of the traffic. We have three very nice buildings on Main Street for our offices and factory. Archie is a small town with a couple of good restaurants, but the nearest Starbucks is 30 minutes away.
